Kennedy Says Group To Serve at Home, Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy says the Peace Corps he has proposed may serve on the home front as well as abroad.

"One of the matters which we are now studying," Kennedy said, "is how we could use Americans who desire to serve in our own country-slum areas, in education retraining and all the rest.

Ground Is Broken In Ceremony

New School Construction Begins Soon

Despite a chilly wind, about 30 people were on hand Monday morning for the groundbreaking ceremonies for the Heber U. Hunt elementary school on Warren between Fifth and Seventh. Turning the first spade of dirt was Dr. Hunt.

Also on hand for the ceremonies was the Smith-Cotton High School band, members of the Board of Education: Charles W. Hurt, Mrs. Mary Studer, E. G. Kehde, Robert Johnson and Forrest Benner. Charles "Davy" Jones, also a member, was unable to be present.

Among the guests were William Schien, Chairman of the Citizens Committee for Better Schools; Mayor Abe Silverman; Chamber of Commerce President, Sam Boyle; President of the Sedalia PTA, Mrs. George Chamberlin; School Superintendent, Thomas J. Norris; Director of Elementary Education, P. A. Sillers; and Maxwell Sanford of the architectural firm of Dan R. Sanford & Sons, architects for the project.

Cost of the project is near the one million dollar mark, according to Norris, who said work will begin as soon as possible. The contractor has been authorized 420 consecutive calendar days to complete the project. This will make the building available in time for the 1962-63 school year.

This is the largest project to come from the $1,665,000 public school improvement program initiated last year, and has been the progress of education in Sedalia.

New Order On Cars For Servicemen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Servicemen overseas can no longer buy foreign cars tax-free and ship them home duty-free with the government paying the freight.

The new order was given Sunday by the Kennedy administration as part of the effort to cut down the outflow of gold and dollars from the United States.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara previously had indicated such a step would be taken. That was after President Kennedy rescinded the controversial order of the previous administration cutting the number of families of servicemen allowed to stay with them abroad.

The foreign car order goes into effect immediately. On June 30 the administration said it intends to let a law lapse that allows servicemen to send $50 worth of gifts home duty free. When the law expires the limit would revert to $10 per shipment — the amount now applicable to tourists.

Roof Fixing Project Underway at WAFB

A project to repair the roofs on quarters for married officers at Whiteman Air Force Base is well underway with completion expected by the last of April.

According to Maj. William Cook of the Whiteman information office the contract was for approximately $44,000 and was awarded to U. S. and Gentges Company of Jefferson City.

Roofs on the quarters are tar and gravel, Maj. Cook said, and the gravel needed to be replaced.

BULLETIN

Ralph Messini of Kansas City, alias Abe Rosen, was arrested by Kansas City police today on a warrant charging him with attempted arson of the Gordon Building in Sedalia Feb. 12.

Messini was the second man charged with attempted arson of the building. Both men were arrested on a Pettis County warrant sworn out by Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin, working together on the case, had the warrant sworn out last week. Messini has been released on bond, pending the hearing in Pettis County, which, according to a telephone conversation with Fairfax about 2 p. m., had not been set. Fairfax and Hamlin are in Kansas City today.

The first man to be arrested in the case, Frank John Amaro, also of Kansas City, will face preliminary hearing in Sedalia March 23.

Results Not Yet Visible

Legislature Beginning To Step Up Pace

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — With a third of its working time gone, the Missouri Legislature is beginning to step up its pace but the results are not visible yet.

Last week the Senate passed the withholding tax bill, the key to Gov. John M. Dalton's tax structure. It is expected to reach his desk in time for payroll withholding of the income tax to become effective July 1.

Other tax bills recommended by the governor are in position to move and legislative leaders have predicted they will prove less troublesome than the withholding bill, which generated a lot of home front opposition.

A bill to boost the two-cent cigarette tax to four cents has won preliminary approval in the House and a bill to increase beer, liquor and wine taxes by 50 per cent also awaits house action.

The House Ways and Means Committee starts its study of various gasoline tax proposals Wednesday, including the governor's plan for an immediate two-cent increase for the state highway program. He would let the

Weather Batters Midwest

Woman Dies In Tornado In Indiana

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Rain, sleet, fog, snow and tornadic winds battered sections of the Midwest today.

A tornado swept through five blocks of a residential area in Kokomo, Ind., today, killing an 80-year-old woman. The storm damaged the Miller Steel Co., plant in the north-central Indiana city.

Heavy snow continued falling in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The first man to be arrested in the case, Frank John Amaro, also of Kansas City, will face preliminary hearing in Sedalia March 23.

Six inches of snow fell in five hours up to midnight, atop four inches that fell Saturday over the area. The Weather Bureau saw no letup in the snowfall.

In Iowa, the state patrol warned motorists that snow, rain and sleet had left "a sheet of ice across the state." In northwest Iowa numerous communities reported six inches of snow.

A tonrad struck Jerseyville, Ill., early today. There were reports of excessive wind damage to property and utility lines.

Damage was small except where one twister caused heavy damage to storage buildings and boats on the Gravois arm of the Lake of the Ozarks.

In the Pacific northwest Sunday, a rain storm powered by winds of up to 83 m.p.h. raced through the state, then changed to a blinding snowstorm in the Cascade Mountains. Property was damaged and utility lines downed.

The snow continued today, with 18 inches reported at Mt. Hood. The same storm blew into Washington State and into British Columbia, with largely the same effect on property and utility lines.

Thieves Carry Off Merchandise From TV Shop

Thieves carried off merchandise valued at several hundred dollars at Smith-Hume TV Shop in Smithton sometime Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

The theft was discovered by the owners about 7 a.m. Sunday morning who summoned Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax. Fairfax said the burglars entered the building by breaking a glass in a rear window. The goods were moved out a south window opened from the inside after entrance had been gained.

Stolen were: an electric adding machine, a typewriter, three portable television sets, one transistor clock radio, one electric clock radio, one transistor radio and two used radios.

The owners told Fairfax they left the building at 5 p.m. Saturday. Operators of a service station nearby said they were open late Saturday night, but could remember seeing no strange cars or persons in the vicinity.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U. S. Navy task force has been turned back from a goodwill voyage and sent back to Congolese waters to be available in case the United Nations needs help there, the State Department said today.

Mid-state Storage Burglary Suspect Picked Up in KC

Kansas City police officers picked up Robert Allen Rhodrick Sunday, on a request by Sedalia Police Chief Ralph Hamlin.

According to Hamlin, Rhodrick signed a confession for breaking and entering Mid-State Storage Co. here Feb. 1. Rhodrick told officers where merchandise stolen at Mid-State was hidden and the goods were found and returned to the owner, Hamlin stated.

Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said today he has sworn out a warrant for Rhodrick and will go to Kansas City to return him to Sedalia for trial.

Fairfax said he also suspected Rhodrick had a role in a theft of some guns which occurred about the same time in Southern Hills.

16 Persons Die In Traffic On Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Sixteen persons were killed in traffic accidents in Missouri during the weekend. Twenty-five were injured.

Four youths were killed late Saturday near Krakow in a two-car collision on a rain-slick highway. Five others were injured, none seriously. The dead were Larry Holtgrieve, 19, Richard Ruether, 17, and Jerome Eckelkamp, 21, all of Washington, Mo., and Louis Vitt, 13, of Union, Mo. Holtgrieve and Ruether were riding in Eckelkamp's car.

Michael Conran Chaney, 20, Leavenworth, Kan., was killed and five others were injured early Sunday in a car that hit a tree south of Rolla. All six were students at the Missouri School of Mines. Robert Gawtz, 20, was listed in critical condition with head and neck injuries. The car was driven by Robert Winterhalter, 18. The others injured were Emmett M. Collins, 23, Tom O'Farrell, 20, and George M. Wuicbrook, Jr.

Two persons were killed in a four-car wreck on U. S. 50 Saturday night about 10 miles east of Jefferson City. The victims were James McQuarry, 45, and his passenger, Finneta Deiro, both of Jefferson City. Carl Wolfe, Sr., Jefferson City, was severely injured.

Mrs. Opal May Shy, 35, Coffeyville, Kan., was killed and her husband, Virgil Shy, was fatally injured Saturday night when their car crashed into a pile driver on Highway 66 at Central City. The Highway Patrol said part of the highway had been closed for repairs and the Shy car had gone past two detour signs. Shy died Sunday night.

One person was killed and seven injured Saturday night in a two-car collision at Pagedale, a St. Louis suburb. The victim was William G. Smith, 38. The driver, Paul Carter, 52, Ada Glover and Mary O'Connor were seriously hurt. In the other car Anthony G. Vigna, 35, of Normandy, Mo., his wife and their two young sons suffered minor injuries.

Henry Woods, 38, of Liberty, Mo., was fatally injured Sunday when his car failed to make a

On Congo Crisis

Stevenson Talks With Ghana Head

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson talked today with Ghana's president, Kwame Nkrumah, on the Congo crisis and arranged to meet later with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold also planned to discuss the growing crisis with Nkrumah as delegates assembled for resumption of the General Assembly Tuesday.

Nkrumah will address the 99th annual assembly when it resumes its 15th session after an 11-week recess.

Hammarskjold discussed the latest Congo developments at an emergency meeting Sunday night with his 18-nation advisory committee. He dispatched instructions to the U.N. Command for urgent action, but U.N. officials would not disclose his plans.

The secretary-general sent to the Security Council a preliminary report on the fighting between Congolese and U.N. troops at the port cities of Banana and Matadi. The report covered the U.N. withdrawal from Banana but was prepared before Sunday night's evacuation of Matadi.

Hammarskjold said U.N. forces had been ordered to hold the big military base at Kitona and reoccupy Banana.

In his talks here, Nkrumah was expected to press his demand that a solution of the Congo problem must be left in the hands of Africans only.

British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore also was on hand for the assembly reopening. The session is expected to last six to eight weeks.

Diplomats hoped to avoid long debate on such cold war issues as Tibet, Hungary and the Soviet complaint against U. S. reconnaissance flights, but there was no sign of agreement that the discussion could be deferred.

The main issues before the assembly will be the Congo problem, disarmament and Soviet demands that the U. N. structure be altered to replace the secretary-general with a three-man executive.

Nkrumah already has transmitted to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold his proposal for a new all-African U. N. command in the Congo which would disarm all Congolese troops, free political prisoners and reconvene Parliament. He has also proposed that all foreign diplomats leave the country.

Some Improvement

Miss Taylor Not Yet Out of Danger

LONDON — Elizabeth Taylor, gravely ill with pneumonia has developed anemia and is being given blood transfusions, her doctors reported tonight.

LONDON (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor had a restless night but she showed slight improvement this morning in her desperate fight against pneumonia, her doctors reported.

"There is a slight improvement in Miss Taylor's condition, but she is not out of danger yet," said a bulletin from the team of six doctors attending the Hollywood star.

Dr. Carl Heinz Goldman, Miss Taylor's personal physician, said she would be in the London Clinic for at least another 10 days and "she will need a long time to recuperate, perhaps a year."

The prospect of such a long period away from the cameras raised another big question mark over the future of the multimillion dollar epic "Cleopatra," in which Miss Taylor was to play the title role.

But Dr. Goldman said Miss Taylor "has tremendous fighting powers and I feel certain she will pull through."

Dr. Goldman said the tube inserted in the star's throat to help her breathing had made her restless.

"Dr. Middleton Price, the breathing expert, was with her all night," he reported.

"Cleopatra" was scheduled to start rolling again next month after long delays due to earlier illnesses of Miss Taylor. The delays are estimated to have cost more than $1 million so far.

Spyros Skouras, head of 20th Century-Fox, said in New York he was waiting for the outcome of Miss Taylor's latest illness before deciding what to do about the film. Earlier he had said he didn't care how long he had to delay, he would not replace Miss Taylor in the starring role.

The 29-year-old beauty was rushed to the exclusive London clinic by ambulance Saturday night with staphylococcus pneumonia. An emergency tracheotomy was performed, placing a tube into her windpipe to ease her breathing.

Miss Taylor was given one hour to live at one point, said her husband, Eddie Fisher, 31.

"I think she has turned the corner now and is fighting back," said the singer, weary from his long vigil at her bedside. Dr. Goldman reported that she was conscious but could not talk because of the tube in her throat.

2 Sudanese UN Troops Said Killed

Negotiations Go On With Congolese To Permit UN Return

LEOPOLDVILLE the Congo (AP) — Weary U.N. soldiers laid down their arms and withdrew from the key Congo port of Matadi after 24 hours of bitter street fighting with Congolese soldiers, a U.N. spokesman reported today.

Negotiations are going on with the Congolese government to get a U. N. garrison back into the town. If these break down, the United Nations is empowered to use force as a last resort, the spokesman said.

Two Sudanese U. N. soldiers—of the 130-man garrison—are known to have been killed in the battle, which raged throughout Saturday and until noon Sunday. Thirteen other Sudanese were wounded. Twelve are missing.

A Canadian signal captain also is missing and the U. N. spokesman said there are grave fears for his safety.

Matadi is the Congo's principal supply port and without control there, the U. N. supply operation would be gravely endangered.

Trouble blew up in the hillside town 60 miles up the Congo River when Congolese units erected road blocks to impede the movement of U. N. personnel. Two helicopters also were seized as they touched down at nearby Boma. That was on Friday.

Saturday the Congolese tried to dislodge an 11-man guard of U. N. Sudanese which had been thrown around a hillside villa used as a communications center by a Canadian signal unit.

The Congolese killed a Sudanese and wrecked the post.

A Canadian captain who went out to talk with the attacking Congolese was not seen again.

Vastly outnumbered and with their ammunition running low, the Canadian signal post and its Sudanese guards surrendered Saturday evening.

Kennedy Asks Aid to Fight Racketeering

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today asked Congress to give the Justice Department an extra $1,158,000 to step up its drive against organized crime and racketeering and to intensify the fight on juvenile delinquency.

The money was requested for use during the fiscal year starting next July 1.

The White House said that $540,000 of the total request was to permit the Justice Department's criminal division to engage additional attorneys for the drive against crime and racketeering. This would be in addition to the $15,120,000 originally requested for general legal activities of the Justice Department.

Kennedy requested an increase of $618,000 for the Bureau of Prisons to expand the fight on juvenile delinquency. The original request for that bureau's general activities was $46 million.

"The prime objective of this effort," the White House said, "will be to help juvenile and youthful offenders about to be released from federal institutions to return to normal community life."

"Emphasis will be placed on vocational training, counseling and job placement. Juvenile and youthful offenders in federal institutions now number 5,000 and the number is increasing annually. A great step forward in combating juvenile delinquency can be achieved through successful re-direction and reeducation of this most vulnerable group."

Feed Grain Producers To Be Surveyed

A survey of all farms in Pettis County which produce feed grains will get under way in the next few days according to C. A. Staples, Chairman, Pettis County ASC Committee.

The survey is being conducted throughout the "major feed grain producing area" (which includes Pettis County) as an advance step in connection with proposed feed grain programs now under discussion. The proposals would include adjusting the 1961 acreages of corn and other feed grains.

To put such a program into operation for 1961 crops in a manner which would be fair to all growers, accurate data must be obtained immediately for the possible establishment of feed grain base acreages for all farms in the major feed grain producing area. Such information will include the acreage history of corn, grain sorghum, barley, and oats, as well as the acreage devoted to other crops and land uses, for all farms in the area where one or more of these feed grains were produced within the past two years.

In other counties—called the "minor" feed grain producing area, such data will be obtained for each feed grain producing farm for which a request is made by the owner or operator of the farm.

Staples explained that it is the intention, as far as possible, for some worker from the County Office to interview each farm operator or owner in Pettis County whose farm has produced feed grains either in 1959 or 1960.

17-Year-Old Youths Get Six Months For Creating Bomb Scare

NEOSHO, Mo. (AP)—Two 17-year-old boys were sentenced to six months in jail Saturday after they pleaded guilty to creating a bomb scare at the Neosho high school.

Donald Powelson and Wendell Jones will serve four days and the rest of the sentence will be suspended.

The school was evacuated Feb. 2 following a telephoned warning that a bomb was in the building.

No Clemency For Murder Of Parents

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Gov. John Anderson today denied executive clemency for Lowell Lee Andrews, who is scheduled to be executed Thursday for murdering his parents and sister.

Anderson said the only possible avenue left for Andrews to escape the gallows was an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

In a prepared statement, Anderson said he had "found no justifiable reason from the application and the presentation thereof for overturning the verdict rendered by the jury, which was approved by the Supreme Court on appeal; that no reason appearing, the judgement of the court should be carried out."

Andrews, 20, was a student at the University of Kansas when he shot and killed his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Andrews, and his sister, Jennie Marie, at their Wyandotte County home Nov. 28, 1958.

The governor said he had received a brief letter from Andrews asking favorable consideration of his plea for executive clemency. "He didn't deny the crimes and he had no explanation for them," Anderson said.

Newsmen asked Anderson about a defense attorney's allegations that Andrews was insane. The governor said, "that was decided by the court."

Shortly after the announcement that clemency had been denied, Anderson sent a letter to the Penal Director Guy C. Rexroad advising him of the denial, and telling him to transmit the information to Andrews immediately.

At Kansas City, defense attorney Harry Hayward said there would be no further action on his part. "As far as I'm concerned it's closed," he said. "It could be taken to federal court if some constitutional question were involved, but I do not think there is."

Andrews has been in death row at the state prison at Lansing since Jan. 20, 1960. Warden Tracy Hand said last week that Andrews had been hoping for a last-minute reprieve.

Others in death row who have appeals pending before the Kansas Supreme Court include two murderers of four members of the Herb W. Clutter family of near Garden City and a Negro rapist from Kansas City.

During the 1960 election campaign, Anderson, a Republican, had charged that then Gov. George Docking, a Democrat, had "set himself above the law" in commuting the death sentence of a Kansas City murderer to life imprisonment.

Anderson has said he believes clemency should be given only to correct a "miscarriage of justice."

Police Radar Nabs 10 Speeders on Weekend

Police radar caught ten speeders during the weekend and the excessive speed cost each person $10. All were driving from eight to 12 miles per hour over a 20-mile speed limit.

Two pleaded guilty in Police Court Monday morning and were fined $10. They were: Orval Edgar Petree, 1802 South Prospect; and Maebreecia L. Williams, 2335 West Third.

Forfeiting $10 bonds were: Ray Brueckner, 2501 West Main; Forrest M. McKinzie, Route 2; Richard D. Dean, 600 South Beacon; Ralph O. Linhart, Route 4; William D. Washington, 213 West Morgan; Forrest Bryan, Route 2; Grace Adele Edmundson, 1611 West 20th; and Charles Edward Sheets, 500 East 14th.

Zoo Officials Think Mabel Is Expecting

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis zoo officials believe Mabel, a sea elephant, is expecting.

A zoo spokesman said the 1,000-pound mammal had been separated from its mate, Moby Dick. "The calf, if she's to have one, could come any time now," he said.

Mabel spent three months in a special pen last year without producing an anticipated calf.

The House Appropriations Committee, meanwhile, is hearing the last of the regular appropriation bills. It covers capital improvement recommendations of about 26 million dollars.

As soon as those hearings are finished, the committee will go into closed session to work out its recommendations for consideration of the full house.

The House was to resume work late today but the Senate was in recess because of the city primary election in St. Louis Tuesday.

The House Committee on Civil and Criminal Procedure scheduled a hearing tonight on a bill to end the secrecy provisions of the juvenile code. They have drawn widespread opposition from the press.

Plans Underway For Jaycee Home Show April 14-16

Plans are now underway for the Jaycee's annual Home Show to be held in Convention Hall on April 14, 15, and 16.

Bill Bridges, chairman of the Home Show this year, reports that there are still spaces left both upstairs and downstairs and these are going fast. Merchants and business men who are interested in obtaining space can get in touch with any member of the Sedalia Jaycees.

Among the merchants who have already joined with the Jaycees for the 1961 Home Show are Peoples Furniture, Adams Dairy, Reinhart Welch Sales, Inc., Duffy's Appliance, John's Lumber Co., State Farm Insurance, Inglish Construction Co., Burton's Cabinet Works, Fairway Carpets, Hamilton Aluminum Products, Necchi-Elna Sewing Circle, Music Center at Deck's, Cal Rodgers Pontiac, W. A. Smith Motors, and Thompson-Greer Motors.

to "get away promptly" because many of the young people who might be interested will be graduating in May and June and will have made other commitments by fall.

Shriver's group has recommended that service in the Peace Corps not be considered exemption from military service. However, he said, he would hope it might be considered as a reason for deferment.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., told a reporter he was working with the administration on legislation to set up the Peace Corps on a permanent basis.

Overseas reaction included this comment from an educator in Nigeria—where only 15 per cent of the population is literate:

"Teachers, and more teachers is what we need most urgently. If America can supply some through its Peace Corps scheme we are wide open to consider any plan which has no strings attached."

Hong Kong's Communist T. Kung Pao said the United States conceived the corps as "an aggressive weapon, to infiltrate and win control over underdeveloped countries."

There was almost complete approval in Pakistan. In India, a spokesman said the idea was "revolutionary and idealistic."

In Britain, Lord Hinchinbrooke a right-wing Tory, thought the naive. Jo Grimond, Liberal party leader, thought the scheme splendid.

The annual meeting will be held on Friday, April 7, 7:30 p.m. at the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and the election of officers will be held at that time. All post members are invited to attend this meeting.

A goal of 35 new members was set for the March TPA membership drive. A total of nine new members were reported at the meeting.

Tentative plans for a post picnic to be held in June were discussed.

In attendance at the meeting were: Harry Walsh, president; Bernard Stanfield, vice-president; Herb Seifert, secretary-treasurer; and Jack Pasley, Maurice Hogan, William Hopkins and K. U. Love, board members.

Communists Win Seats In Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Communists won their first Senate seats in 14 years but conservative government candidates in Chile's congressional election held a comfortable lead today.

Partial returns gave parties backing President Jorge Alessandri's coalition government 299,762 votes and leftist and Communist parties 258,572. The Communists elected at least three senators, causing dancing and shouts of "victory, victory" on the street in front of party headquarters.

The election was Chile's first chance to react to the polls to Alessandri's austerity program. In the municipal elections last year the Communists and Socialists had made a poor showing, and the shift in strength Sunday surprised political observers.

About 1.8 million persons were eligible to vote. Only 780,000 voted in the 1957 congressional election.

A total of 565 candidates went after the 147 seats in the Chamber of Deputies. Fifty-two candidates sought 25 Senate vacancies. Chile has 45 senators with staggered eight-year terms. Deputies serve four-year terms.

One election death was reported. A man tried to break up a fight between a Communist and a non-Communist campaign worker at Codegua, near Santiago, and was shot.

Voters at Osorno were showered with dark ashes when Puyehue volcano erupted briefly. An earth tremor shook Los Angeles in south central Chile as balloting was going on but no injuries were reported.

The anti-government campaign was led by the Popular Action Front (FRAP), which includes Communists, Socialists, Christian Democrats and supporters of Fidel Castro. FRAP accused the government of failing to solve critical housing, labor and inflation problems. It urged nationalization of Chile's rich mineral industries and trade and diplomatic ties with Communist nations.

Nine in Crew Die As KB50 Takes Plunge

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—An Air Force KB50 refueling airplane crashed just short of a Biggs Air Force Base runway Sunday night killing all nine men aboard.

The six-engine craft crashed with a tremendous explosion in an unpopulated area two to three miles northeast of a runway at the base.

"It was the most sickening thing I ever saw," said one rescue worker at the scene.

The plane was one of six returning from a routine refueling mission in the Pacific.

The wreckage was scattered over a half mile area.

An official Air Force inquiry was started to determine why the airplane crashed. The Air Force withheld the names of the seven crew members and two maintenance men on the plane.

Baseofficials said the pilot had asked the Biggs tower for landing instructions just prior to the crash. The pilot reported no trouble.

A red flash was seen by one witness 30 miles away from the crash site, eight miles northeast of El Paso and near the New Mexico-Texas line.

The plane was assigned to the 431st Air Refueling Squadron at Biggs and was based there as a tenant craft attached to the Tactical Air Command. The KB50 is a modification of the B29 of World War II fame. It is used for refueling of jet fighters attached to the TAC.

The plane had stopped at McClellan Air Force Base near San Francisco before starting the return trip to Biggs.

A crew of six normally is assigned to the KB50, and there was no immediate reason given as to why more men were aboard the plane. All of the victims were from Biggs.

Women's Group Holds Regular Luncheon Meet

The Women's Association of the Broadway Presbyterian Church met Thursday in the church Service Building with a covered dish luncheon served at noon by Group 4, with Mrs. Manning DeWitt in charge.

In the afternoon a business meeting was held with Mrs. Ira Leiter, president, presiding. The meeting was opened with repeating the Association's opening prayer. Mrs. John Miers then read from the World Book of Prayer, remembering the missionaries for the day and this was followed with prayer.

An announcement was made that the Presbyterian Executive meeting will be held at the Broadway church Tuesday morning, March 14, to which members should bring a sack lunch. Coffee will be furnished.

March 13, the Church World Service truck will be in Sedalia, and members are asked to bring clothing, bedding and shoes to the church before that time.

The women of the church will furnish transportation for the Golden Age Club during the month of March.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Vernon Cordry, program chairman, presented Miss Jessie Browneller, who read a most interesting paper on the life and work of Dr. David Livingstone in Africa.

Group singing included five numbers and Mrs. D. Warren Neal sang a solo, "Were You There?"

The club closed with repeating the Association closing prayer.

Jury Decides Sentence For Murderer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A jury reconvenes today to decide whether Robert B. Dalton must die or serve life in prison for the bludgeoning of his aged benefactor.

The jury Sunday night convicted Dalton of first-degree murder in the death of John R. Larendon, 86, retired New York City ships stores merchant.

Larendon, who died Dec. 7, had willed Dalton his entire $600,000 estate. Police said Dalton, the elderly man's secretary-companion since 1949, fatally beat Larendon in their $100,000 home in suburban La Jolla Nov. 20, 1960.

Dalton, 39, claimed a burglar must have done it. He said clothing and liquor were stolen.

Under California law the same jury, seven women and five men, will now decree the penalty. It could send him to the San Quentin Prison gas chamber.

Dalton and his employer moved to La Jolla from New York in 1957. Dalton, tall and slender, with graying blond hair, testified he awoke about 7 a. m. Nov. 20 and found Larendon "in a bloody mess sitting in his chair."

"I shuddered and screamed and walked out. I thought I was having a bad nightmare," said Dalton. "Then I walked back in and asked John what had happened. He replied, 'Nothing, my leg will be all right.'"

"I never have hit, assaulted or harmed John R. Larendon. I was very fond of Mr. Larendon. He was very generous."

Larendon had a fractured ankle and was blood-spattered from head and face wounds. The coroner's pathologist testified at the trial that he died of a brain hemorrhage resulting from a head blow. Police say he apparently never realized what had happened to him.

Police Sgt. Glenn Lebus testified that during the investigation Dalton said, "I wish the old man was dead. He's nothing but a vegetable."

Police testified they had matched Dalton's fingerprints with a torn-out screen from a bathroom window which they said he apparently removed in trying to back his story of a burglar-killer.

United Circle Of Tipton Holds Regular Meeting

Mrs. Carl Graham entertained the members of the United Circle of the First Christian Church of Tipton at her home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Jack Hoskins and the Rev. George Igo were guests of the circle.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Monte Howard. Important dates members were asked to remember included the church services each Wednesday evening before Easter, the Union pre-Easter services during the week before Easter at the Baptist Church, the Sacrificial Supper at the Christian Church March 22, the Traditional Seven Last Words Service at the Christian Church from 1 to 3 o'clock Good Friday, and the Union Sunrise Service at the Presbyterian Church on Easter morning.

The program was presented by Mrs. Lola Howard, who gave an interesting lesson on Victory Over a Bad Disposition. The meeting was concluded by the C. W. F. benediction.

Refreshments were served during the social hour following the meeting.

Demands the Council Raise His House Rent

RUDDINGTON, England (AP) —George Wright, 64, telephoned the municipal council and demanded that it raise his rent.

Wright, a Labor party member of the council for nine years, explained: "I'm just practicing what I preach. I moved into a house owned by the council and my rent is subsidized out of local taxes."

"But the week after I moved in I won 16,200 pounds—$45,360—on the soccer pools. I don't want poorer people helping to subsidize my rent."

Approval Is Expected For JFK Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's legislative program sails into the shoals of congressional controversy this week with every indication that the vanguard of his priority proposals will win approval.

The Senate will take up by midweek a bill to provide $394 million in loans and grants for areas of chronic unemployment.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he hopes the measure will be passed substantially in its present form before the week is out.

The Senate Finance Committee will hold a hearing Wednesday on a House-passed bill to extend unemployment compensation payments to jobless persons who have exhausted their benefits.

Mansfield has scheduled action in the Senate on it next week. It is expected to sail through with minimum opposition.

Kennedy plans to send a farm message to Congress Tuesday. He has scheduled a housing message for Thursday.

The kind of reception these and other controversial programs receive may be tested to an extent by the Senate's action on the depressed areas legislation.

As Democratic strategists view it, there is likely to be only one close battle in the Senate over the bill. That involves what is largely a Democratic family argument — whether the program should be administered by a separate agency or the Commerce Department.

Democratic leaders think they can dispose of Republican substitutes without much trouble.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has on tap a substitute calling for an $80-million program similar to that proposed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. All but $5 million of government funds would be for plant loans in depressed industrial areas.

Dirksen's bill is given almost no chance of passage. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., has an intermediate proposal for a $214-million program.

Manuel Hidalgo

Ecuador Politician Tries To Join Fidel Castro Camp

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—A Quito politician with black horn-rimmed glasses and a spade beard is trying to put his country into Fidel Castro's camp.

Manuel Araujo Hidalgo, 36, and barely five feet tall, has just returned from an all-expenses paid trip to Havana. While there he took it upon himself to assure Cuba that Ecuador fully supports the Castro regime. He said, "If Fidel is a Communist you can add me to the list because I am with him."

Since Araujo is a bosom friend of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra the question arose whether he was voicing the country's official policy toward Cuba.

Velasco answered that any foreign policy statements would be made through the Foreign Ministry.

Foreign Minister Jose Ricardo Chiriboga said the government could not be held responsible for any statements made abroad by Ecuadorean tourists.

But the strong Conservative party demanded action. In a sharply worded communique it charged the Cuban Embassy here was intervening in internal affairs and demanded that Ecuador break off diplomatic relations.

Carlos Mario Cardinal de la Torre, archbishop of Quito, issued a pastoral letter warning Catholics of a Communist threat in Ecuador.

The Communists here are well organized, and Castro influence is strong in the country.

When Araujo returned from Cuba he was greeted by Communist and pro-Cuban leaders and leftist students. They demanded that the foreign minister, a personal and political enemy of Araujo, resign because of his anti-Cuba and pro-U. S. stand.

Araujo, politicians speculate, wants to be Ecuador's next president. So does Chiriboga. The next presidential elections are not until 1964, but the campaign is on.

Araujo is counting heavily on support from Velasco, whom he has worshiped since 1940 when he was a student. As Velasco became powerful, he always looked after his young protege.

Credit Load Piling Up

We Americans are loading ourselves with such an ever-increasing mountain of personal debt that the question must be whether we can ever get out from under. Some specialists in consumer finance are saying, they don't think so.

In World War II, with installment buying under government limit, the total of all consumer credit sank to $4.4 billion at one point. From that low, it has generally surged upward to a present fantastic $56 billion. Its biggest single leap, $7 billion, came in 1955, remembered as an extremely prosperous year.

This burden, of course, takes no account of home mortgage debt. Leaving our farms, the mortgage total on family properties in late 1960 had reached $139 billion. In 1945, the last big war year, it was only $18.6 billion.

It isn't enough to say that all this is perfectly natural because the population has shot up 30 to 40 million since the war. Nor can it be shrugged off by declaring that the dollar has been losing value throughout this span. The fact is that when figured in constant dollar terms, consumer spending has had an annual average increase of 3.5 per cent since 1947. In that same period the annual average population gain has been 1.7 per cent.

We're piling up the credit load especially heavily for automobiles. At the end of 1960 the installment burden in this field totaled $18 billion, four times the sum of all consumer credit in the depth of war. In the decade of the 1950s, according to Federal Reserve Board figures, we borrowed $135 billion altogether for the purchase of new and used cars.

As the burden mounts, we buyers try to stretch it out. The average car loan now runs more than 30 months, and many go 36. But before that deadline is reached, your car may need costly repairs and your dealer is suggesting a new one.

Television sets, washing machines and other appliances may serve a little longer, but repair and replacement inevitably become factors.

Even the partially unemployed don't escape. Though they try to reduce their installment burdens, figures show that in the end they still lay out about the same proportion of their aggregate income—8 per cent—on credit buying, as do the fully employed.

Some Detroit officials think of car buyers as permanently in hock. The supporting evidence seems fairly substantial.

Every individual consumer, and every specialist concerned with the health of the economy, should perhaps be at least faintly troubled at the growing mountain.

We have borrowed our way into a very nice standard of living. Let's hope we're not borrowing a real economic cave-in at some distant date.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

JFK Squirms Over An Appointment

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It's an old saying that politics make strange bedfellows. And there are no stranger bedfellows today than the Catholic, anti-Klan, pro-Negro President of the United States and the Protestant, pro-Klan, anti-Negro Governor of Alabama.

Red-faced, but loyal, President John Kennedy has bowed to Gov. John Patterson's demand that his campaign manager, Charlie Meriwether, a buddy of the KKK Grand Dragon, be confirmed as director of the Export-Import Bank where he will be in charge of loans to African Negro Republics.

Kennedy's friends explain that he is chagrined and didn't have the least idea what he was getting into when he appointed Meriwether. But once he got hooked with a commitment to the Governor of Alabama he felt he couldn't get out of it. Friends indicate he wouldn't shed a tear if the Senate finally rebuffed the appointee who played footsie with the Klan in Alabama. They know that Meriwether in public office means continuing headaches for four years, with repercussions—especially in Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

Three of the President's own party took a step toward helping him out by voting against Meriwether in the Senate Banking and Currency Committee — Clark of Pennsylvania, Proxmire of Wisconsin, and Neuberger of Oregon. Thanks to the fact that two other Democrats withheld their votes — Douglas of Illinois and Muskie of Maine — Meriwether squeaked through by a one-vote margin—5 to 4. If either Douglas or Muskie had voted "no" the appointment would have been killed in committee.

Senator Williams of New Jersey, Democrat, didn't bother to attend.

Reluctant Bedfellows

Political bedfellows are necessary in politics, though often regrettable. The Patterson-Kennedy bedfellowship began 13 months before the Los Angeles Democratic convention when the Governor of Alabama came out for Kennedy's nomination. It had been hoped by Kennedy that he wouldn't be quite so premature, because Patterson had just been elected with Klan and White Citizens Council support; and Jim Free of the Birmingham News very accurately reported at the time (July 3, '59) "Kennedy has been both startled and bewildered by Patterson's open avowal of support after breakfast at the Senator's home on June 13.

"If Kennedy had had his 'druthers' he would have preferred for Governor Patterson to wait and come out for Kennedy when it might do some good in the immediate pre-convention months of 1960."

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

FALSE HOPES — In his otherwise fine Inaugural Address, Mr. Kennedy made one statement that is simply not true. He said, "Man holds in his mortal hands the power to abolish all forms of human poverty and all forms of human life."

The implication is that man NOW can end poverty everywhere. If so, why doesn't he?

This proposal to "share the wealth" can only lead the underdeveloped areas of the world to expect its accomplishment, and hold hard feelings against us later because it is impossible.

Our 6 per cent of the world's people cannot end poverty throughout the world, — not when world population increases by 120,000 every day! Authorities estimate that there are more hungry people now than before the Marshall Plan started. If we doubled foreign aid to Asia, Africa and South America, it would give each person only $3.00 or $4.00 a year!

In decades of time, much could be done, of course, but on this virgin American continent, the most inventive people in all history, blessed with stable government, had no burdensome farm surplus during 300 years.

Fifty years ago we were replenishing worn-out soil with huge imports of guano from South America. Chemical fertilizers now replace animal manures, but this gigantic industry, costing billions and untold "know-how," cannot be set up in Asia by making a speech.

But far more than science is needed—the slow, painful accumulation of capital; political stability (very important), and security for property.

These are plants of slow growth.

Kennedy Continuing Role of Calmness

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy warned in his inaugural address that people riding tigers wind up inside. He has been riding a lamb himself, a kind President Dwight D. Eisenhower invented.

It was a time of raw nerves when Eisenhower took office. There was frustration over the Korean War, anger over the advance of communism which had taken China, suspicion and division from McCarthyism and open brawling between President Harry S. Truman and the Republicans.

Eisenhower restored some national calmness. His greatest contribution may have been his avoidance of name-calling, personal attacks and the appearance of exasperation.

His continued popularity showed the country appreciated calmness and wanted to keep it. It was a lesson the politicians could not overlook.

It was no wonder that in the 1960 campaign Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon kept their efforts on a fairly high plane. The one who tried otherwise might have been swamped in the returns.

Many voters, consciously or not, may have picked Kennedy because, except for his Catholicism he was a noncontroversial figure while Nixon had been in controversy most of his political life.

Kennedy is continuing what he did in the campaign: presenting calmness. He is handing Congress controversial programs while remaining noncontroversial himself.

By avoiding harshness, he has deprived his opponents of ammunition. He has concentrated all arguments on the issues without letting them get tangled in personalities.

In the meantime he is getting across to the public, which can put big pressure on Congress, a sense of his calm self. For him so far the reaction has been extremely good.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

William P. Hurley and brother Edward J., were injured in an automobile accident near Olathe, Kans., the latter sustaining a fractured rib, when their car and one driven by a chauffeur for John Sweet, manager of the Sweet Hotels, collided on the rise of a hill. The chauffeur was believed temporarily blinded by the sun. Mr. Sweet was taken to a Topeka hospital. T. A. and Austin Hurley went to Olathe and brought their brothers home.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Organization of a State Chamber of Commerce to be composed of representatives of all Chambers of Commerce, Commercial and Community Clubs in the state of Missouri, was determined upon at a conference of representatives of more than a dozen of the leading organizations of the state. The meeting was called by Dr. J. E. Baird of Excelsior Springs and held in the rooms of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. M. V. Carroll, secretary of the Sedalia Chamber, attended.

He has done it by opening himself and the White House to public view under the most favorable circumstances.

Kennedy's televised news conferences, always handled easily, are one instrument for providing a view of a man who has things under control.

He has used other means to show himself a relaxed, friendly, down-to-earth man very much on the job and very busy. For example: Letting photographers snap him in his office on the phone, or conferring with his top officials, or taking a few minutes out to negotiate with his daughter, Caroline, or lead her off to bed.

The White House has been opened up, more than Eisenhower ever opened it, with stories of how well Kennedy works, of how well-informed he is on national dilemmas; stories of the informal Kennedys dashing out to a late movie or to a friend's house for dinner; stories of Kennedy in charge, listening to his aides and then making decisions.

Actually it is the absence of something which gives the best picture of Kennedy as the unchallenged president: No one in his administration has remotely tried to be dominant or shift attention to himself.

The Doctor's Mailbag

Knowing ABCs of Polio Can Guard Your Family

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

Infantile paralysis is a much misunderstood infectious disease.

Its infectivity is NOT limited to infants who enjoy, as a matter of fact, an almost complete natural immunity for about the first year of life.

It rarely causes paralysis. At least 95 per cent of infections consist entirely of what are called "inapparent infections." That is to say, they pass as summer colds, "summer diarrheas," ptomaine poisonings or mild gripe attacks.

The infection is NOT airborne, hence it cannot be prevented by shutting schools, playgrounds, theaters and public meeting places in times of epidemic.

It IS stool-borne, excreted with bowel movements of those suffering from inapparent infections as well as paralyzed patients and convalescents.

Since sufferers from inapparent infection outnumber the paralyzed by perhaps 20 to 1, they constitute the principal reservoir of infection. And the menace, created by them, can best be eliminated by the simple device of scrubbing hands after a visit to the toilet and again before handling food.

On those infrequent occasions when paralysis does occur, it rarely involves the breathing mechanism despite publicity given the "iron lung." Probably no more than one in a thousand of the afflicted requires the help of artificial means for respiration.

Of the paralyzed, the preponderant majority make a sufficient complete recovery so that they suffer little functional disability during the remainder of their lives. Rehabilitation therapy goes a long way toward reducing these handicaps to an absolute minimum. But the great miracles are accomplished by the healing processes of nature.

Here are some of the lessons to be learned from these truths:

Irrespective of age, take your Salk shots this spring so that you are fully protected by the summer months when polio rates reach their peak.

If you are pregnant or you have a child who has had tonsils removed ask for booster shots since respiratory involvement is highest in the pregnant and those who have had tonsils out.

If you or your children come down with any summer fever, especially if there is polio in your vicinity, call your doctor and specifically ask if the infection could be an inapparent polio. For, if it is, the sick person, with or without paralysis, may be a menace to others.

If you have the misfortune to have a paralytic patient in your household, ask your doctor to make immediate contact with the nearest regional office of the National Foundation. Your voluntary contribution to the March of Dimes entitles you to use facilities that will insure the best opportunity for complete recovery.

The Mature Parent

Jealousy Is Best Cured By Owning Up to It

Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

As a result of her attachment to her doctor, a young woman under psychotherapy developed an embarrassing jealousy of his secretary.

She wanted to be polite to the other young woman—and couldn't. She wanted to show reasonable appreciation of the secretary's courtesy but couldn't manage that either. In spite of her best efforts, she was often rude and patronizing. When she did succeed in appearing friendly, her eyes would not meet those of the secretary. Then, in her despair, she would hear herself making flattering remarks whose insincerity increased her self-contempt.

One day she found the courage to discuss the situation with her doctor. What he said was:

"If you were to tell Miss Jones that you are jealous of her, you would feel better about it."

I report this for a Mrs. P. who writes:

"Through our daughter's friendship with another youngster, the families have become friends, too. Recently, the other youngster started dating a boy friend. Jeanie is terribly jealous. We all notice it. She's become so strained and unlike herself with Kit that it embarrasses all of us. I suppose there is nothing I can do to help the child. . . ."

That depends on whether the child can confide her jealousy to you. When and if she does, you might suggest she confide it to the friend who has aroused it.

"The horrid thing about jealousy for someone we like is the special shame it makes us feel. Like the young woman under psychotherapy, we are torn between envy—and the conscience that tells us it is unreasonable, disloyal and mean. On the one hand we hate our friend; on the other, we hate ourselves for hating him. That's when things get awfully strained and mixed up. We try to pretend that nothing is wrong, and to the burden of our jealousy is added the really nasty burden of knowing ourselves to be dishonest.

Well, jealousy's self-beitling is really rough enough on us without having to loathe ourselves for insecurity, too.

Youngsters take a great deal of pride in their reasonableness and loyalty to friends. So it isn't easy to help them accept the truth that they can feel jealous of one. I expect it is only simple when we're so accustomed to similar jealousies in ourselves that we can discuss this as easily as we would discuss an upset stomach.

Son Gives His View Of Mismatched Marriage

By RUTH MILLETT

Most interesting letter in this week's mailbag:

"My father is a rip-roaring, brilliant business executive who is crucifying me because I am unable to follow his royal footsteps through his tough college major and into his business world, which is rough even for an old salt like him.

"He was a successful young tycoon who married a 'pretty bit of fluff' because her childlike prattle relaxed and entertained him. Her innocent, little girl chatter appealed to his masculinity. They have gotten along without arguments because she can't best him in an argument and so always 'yeses' him.

"What my brilliant father apparently never dreamed of was that his son might get his brains from his mother instead of his father u which is exactly what happened. But if I dared remind him of this he would floor all six feet of me for being disrespectful to my mother.

"I wouldn't be writing this to you if this were just my problem (being the disappointing son of an intelligent, successful father), but I can look around me and see that the same kind of thing is going to happen over and over.

"The most intelligent of my classmates at the university I am about to flunk out of, date the dumbest girls because the chatter of these beautiful but dumb dolls makes them feel like intellectuals. When I point out what life would be like with a dumb wife they say: 'I'm not going to MARRY her. I'm just dating her.'

"But they do marry these girls and then before a year is up they are yelling their intelligent heads off about marriage.

"They haven't seen anything yet. Wait until they try to educate the sons who happen to get their brains from their mothers! Then they will be yelling.

"If I can I intend to marry a girl with some brains and hope that my sons WILL take after their mother. Then maybe my father can groom one of MY sons to fill the shoes I'm not bright enough to fill. And I expect I'll have a better marriage, too. I

Dates Ahead

Mo-Kan Market Hog Show, Kansas City Stock Yards, Tuesday, March 7.
Machinery Dealers meeting, at Columbia, Tuesday, March 7.
St. Joseph Tested Boar Sale—Wednesday, March 15.

Pettis County Fat Cattle Feed Lot Tour, Thursday, March 16.
Sheep Shearing School, Leonard, Mo., March 13 and 14.
Sheep Shearing School, Gallatin, Mo., March 15 and 16.
Will Visit Six Feed Lots March 16

Plans are complete for two feed lot tours on Thursday, March 16. The first will start at Smith Higgins on Highway D, a mile east of Highway 127 at 9:30. Additional stops will be made at Earl Gregory's east of Houstonia and at Das McClure's east of Hughesville.

The afternoon tour will start at Pierre Lamy's just northeast of Sedalia, will include Clay Leftwich's, north of Beaman and end up at Carl Raines' a little further northeast.

Glenn Grimes, Extension Livestock Marketing Specialist from the University and representatives of the commission companies at Kansas City will be assisting with the tour. Further information is included in a picture and story elsewhere on this page.

Doyle Meyers Added to Dairy Keepers

Last week we announced that Earl Wood had joined the Weigh-A-Day-A-Month dairy testing association. This week Loyd Lewellen, Farm and Home Planning Agent brought in the check of Harry Doyle Meyers who lives two miles east of Hughesville. Doyle has a Brown Swiss herd of 20 cows.

The addition of these two herds brings the record keeping total to ten herds and includes 213 producing cows.

Larry Wilson Applies for Sheep Shearing School

We have been carrying the dates of two sheep shearing schools, one at Leonard, Mo. on March 13 and 14 and the other at Gallatin on March 15 and 16. Applications must be made through the Extension Office. Larry Wilson, son of Cloyce Wilson living southwest of Sedalia sheared the family sheep flock last year and has made application to the school.

Mr. G. W. Hamby, Vocational Agriculture Instructor at Green Ridge told me that several of his boys might be interested and we did furnish them with application blanks.

Equipment is furnished at the schools but the youngsters must pay their own food and lodging. Also, first choice will be given the youngsters who will plan to do some custom work in addition to shearing the family flock.

Have You Added Up Your Feed Grain Acreage?

There is still considerable controversy, state and nation wise, regarding President Kennedy's Feed Grain Program. However, the local ASC office is set to collect information on feed grain acreages per farm.

The crops they will request information upon are corn, grain sorghum, oats, and barley. Each farmer is requested to have figures available on the acreages of each of those crops on each of his farms during 1959 and 1960.

Poultry Production Bulletin

A new agricultural experiment station bulletin has just come out from the University of Missouri regarding egg production. Its title is Comparison of Purebred, Cross and Hybrids For Egg Production. The bulletin number is 754.

The editors of the bulletin rank the different crosses in order of performance based on the upper fifty per cent of all groups involved. Since this project was carried out at the University, the number of individuals involved could not have been too large. However, the results obtained should be rather good indications of performance.

On the basis of performance, the hybrid birds ranked in first place, followed by crosses of heavy breed males and white leghorn females. Third place went to crosses of White Leghorn males on heavy breed females followed by a strain cross of white leghorns. Heavy breed crosses were in fifth place follow-

Chemical Weed Control

Weeds Can Prove a Costly Item in Your Soybean Field

Weeds in your soybean fields are costly. Missouri Agriculture Experiment Station trials indicate that weeds remaining in soybeans after usual cultivations may be expected to cut yields from 2½ to 5 bushels per acre. Then if you add the costs of cultivation to this loss, weeds generally represent an $8 to $15 per acre cost item. No wonder growers everywhere are looking for some good weed control chemical for soybeans.

Some chemicals for pre-emergence use on soybeans are on the market. But, unfortunately, those now available all leave something to be desired, since it has been very hard to find a chemical that will kill weeds without hurting beans.

Alanap-3 is the least costly one of these chemicals and generally does a good job of controlling weeds. Yet injury to soybeans occurs so frequently that the Experiment Station doesn't recommend it.

In our experience, injury with Alanap-3 has varied from such slight stunting that you can hardly notice it, up to a 40 per cent loss of stand. And when we average all of our trials we find a loss of from two to three bushels per acre from using the treatment when compared with regular cultivation. So it seems that use of Alanap-3 can be justified only if you expect a terrific weed problem.

Dinitro and ChlorolPC have also been used on soybeans, but have just given injury too often to be recommended.

Randox, or CDAA, has never given injury to soybeans in our tests. But it has often failed to give good weed control, is rather high in cost, and is irritating to the applicator. Randox gives more effective control of annual grasses than of broadleaf weeds, though. So, despite all of its disadvantages, it might be considered if really bad trouble with a grass like giant foxtail is expected.

The two materials that have been most promising in our trials are not as yet fully cleared by the FDA. This year they can only be used on beans that are to be sold for seed. One of these is the sodium salt of Pentachlorophenol. When beans are planted at normal depths, any injury is exceptional and weed control is usually good. This chemical is a bit irritating to use, but should not be too expensive if its sale does become widespread. Amiben is the other promising chemical. It has only been tested for two years. It has generally given good weed control, although it has failed sometimes when there has been very heavy rain after planting, especially on gumbo soil. It has seldom injured soybeans, and when it has, injury has been light. But more testing is needed before we will really know just exactly what to expect of Amiben.

So, as things stand right now for the 1961 growing season, there is no chemical for soybean weed control that we can recommend for general, widespread use. If you anticipate an exceptional

Average Boar Brings $214 At Test Sale

The Missouri Swine Testing Sale last weekend recorded the highest sale average since the beginning of testing in 1958. Sixty-five tested boars sold for an average of $214.

Boars which meet station requirements are sold by their owners in a cooperative auction at the end of each testing period.

Top price of $380 was bid on a Duroc boar owned by Walter Stemme of Marthasville. Buyer was G. J. Wright, Greenwood.

Second high boar also was one owned by Stemme. It sold for $370 to Thompson Brothers of Salisbury.

Two Hampshire boars owned by Hinds Farm of Willow Springs brought $340 each. Buyers were Arthur and Ralph Menscher, of Wentzville; and Robert Curtiss of Sedalia.

Twenty-three consignors had boars in the sale. Seven breeds were represented including besides those mentioned Berkshire, Landrace, Yorkshire, Black Poland China, and Spotted Poland China.

These boars had been on test since November, according to station supervisor, R. K. Leavitt. All had passed station standards for daily gain, backfat thickness and feed efficiency. In addition, boars in the sale had to pass a quality check by a screening committee of hog breeders.

The next testing period begins at the Swine Station near Columbia in April. Leavitt says pigs farrowed between Feb. 1 and March 10 will be eligible. Breeders can get more information from county extension agents.

herd production. Now, with electronic processing, says Itschner, records can be more complete, more accurate and useful than ever before.

The Owner-Sampler plan gives much the same information, but hasn't been as readily accepted by Missouri dairymen as has the standard plan. It costs the dairyman even less than has the standard plan, and electronic processing of records is available for owner-sampler herd records, too.

Least expensive of the three plans is Weigh-A-Day-A-Month record keeping. This plan provides a milk record on each cow and a herd feed record, too, at minimum expense. This plan has been adopted by many of the smaller herd owners.

There's a Dairy Herd Improvement record plan for every dairy farm, says Itschner, and record-keeping is a must in today's dairy operation.

Thicker Stands Of Corn Best In Every Year

The thick corn stands are better than thin stands in any year—dry weather or not.

A popular farm table has been that a thin stand of corn does better in a dry year than a heavier plant population. University of Missouri corn research shows this isn't so.

Two separate experiments, both in operation for 11 years, show that thick and thin stands yield about the same in dry years. In better growing seasons, thick corn far out-yielded the thin stands.

Both tests were conducted on Putnam silt loam soil with adequate fertility supplied. In one test, planting was at the rate of 8,000 versus 14,000 corn plants per acre. In the other, planting rates were 10,000 for the thin stand versus 16,000 corn plants per acre.

Average Corn Yields Top 100 Bushels

Corn hybrids tested in the 1960 Missouri yield trials averaged 102 bushels per acre. Tests are made each year by University of Missouri on most commercial and experimental hybrids offered in Missouri.

According to University field crops staff member O. V. Singleton, this 102-bushel average compares with last year's yield trial average of 97 bushels. Missouri's overall corn yield average for farmers in 1960 was 52 bushels per acre.

Purpose of the tests is to see how open and closed pedigree hybrids perform in controlled tests. All producers and distributors of hybrid seed are eligible to place seed in the tests. Trials on 138 hybrids last year tested not only yield but also lodging, dropped ears, ear height and crop stand.

Singleton thinks wet spring weather caused lower yields at several locations. Two of the 19 trials had to be abandoned.

Highest average yield was at trials at Marshall—132 bushels. Moscow Mills location was next with 123 bushels per acre and then the Sikeston plot with 120 bushels. Sikeston and Carthage plots were irrigated.

A detailed summary of the hybrid corn yield trials will be published by University Agricultural Experiment Station. It should be available soon at county extension offices — or write Mailing Room, Mumfords Hall, Columbia.

Size Up Future

Quality Dairy Roughage Is Important to Your Profits

Your profit as a dairy farmer is in proportion to the quality and amount of forage available for your herd. There is no quicker way to size up the future of your dairy enterprise. How much pasture, silage and hay will you have available for your herd during the next year?

The forage situation has grown worse in Missouri during the past 10 years. The number of beef and dairy cattle has increased from 2,800,000 head to over 4,000,000 or more than 40 per cent. Where we had 1.6 tons of hay per cow per year in the late 1940's and 50's we now have only about 1.1 ton. The use of silage and other forage had increased but not enough to equal the amount of hay available in 1950 and 1951.

About 40 per cent of our dairy cows are in 24 Southwest Missouri Counties. Here the margin between hay supply and cattle numbers is much narrower. Much more silage is used in this area.

So, the outlook for the year ahead — and guessing that we will have a good crop year — is that hay supplies in the state will be tight and in short supply for Southwest Missouri. With an adverse season it could become critical.

We need not look to the coming of spring and grass to solve our problem. It is time we made some serious plans for increasing roughage supply for summer, fall and winter of this year.

In short, if you are looking to better quality roughage for your herd, make your plans quickly for producing it on your farm. Your dairy plant field man or county agent can help you with ideas on how to increase the amount and quality of the hay and silage you will have to feed next winter.

They can also supply you with a copy of Folder C-2, "Dreams and Plans for Feeding Your Dairy Herd." It has valuable tips on arriving at the amount you will need and what crops to grow.

There is no use gambling that this will be the year that lespedeza will be more productive; or, that pastures will be better and less stored roughage will be needed.

Oats can be seeded for extra hay. You can fertilize grass and legume stands to get more and better hay or pasture.

If you are looking for better quality dairy roughage in the year ahead it will be this kind of planning and action that will bring results.

Make Safe Hunting A Personal Habit

Safe hunting should be a habit, says Missouri Extension safety engineer, C. E. Stevens says a safe hunter always has complete control of his firearm and himself. If a hunter makes a habit of doing the safe thing, this habit will stand him in good stead during times of emergency or excitement.

Jim Lemon Tosses 'Problem' At Minnesota's President

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Hard-hitting Jim Lemon, who led the club with 38 home runs and 100 runs batted in last season, has tossed this two-pronged problem at Minnesota Twins' President Cal Griffith.

1. He can't be found.
2. He's asking $1,000 a homer to end his holdout siege.

The 35-year-old outfielder received an estimated $24,000 for the 1960 baseball campaign in which he hit .269, and figures he deserves a contract with a pay boost that reflects his slugging talents. The price for his signature is $38,000—a grand per homer.

Griffith admitted Sunday that neither he nor Lemon, the top man of the transplanted Twins' slugging triumvirate that includes Harmon, Killebrew and Bob Allison, have budged since salary negotiations began.

The president of the former Washington Senators said he has tried to contact Lemon at his Roanoke, Va., home, but couldn't locate the Twins' last holdout.

Chicago White Sox pitcher Bob Shaw, 13-13 last year with a 4.06 earned run average, wasn't playing hide-and-seek when club Vice President Hank Greenberg called at the right-hander's Garden City, N. Y. home to discuss salary.

Greenberg had no success. The Milwaukee Braves did, however, signing rookie catcher Joe Torre, leaving infielder Felix Mantilla, catcher Merritt Ranew and outfielder Wes Covington as the remaining dissatisfied players.

On the playing field, the pitchers were the show at the St. Louis Cardinals and Washington Senators camps while the hitters provided the talk in the Kansas City A's, Pittsburgh Pirates and Los Angeles Dodgers squad games.

Bob Miller, promising 21-year-old right-hander sidelined most of last season by arm trouble, threw so hard and with such finesse that Cardinal pitching coach Howie Pollard said he believed the youngster "might win up to 15 games this year."

Dick Donovan and Tom Stuvant combined for a six-hit shutout in the new Senators first intra-squad clash. Donovan, drafted from the White Sox, and Stuvant, selected from the Boston Red Sox, each went three innings and allowed no walks.

Rookie Jay Hankins, bidding for an outfield berth with the A's after a .300 season at Shreveport of the Texas League, slammed a two-run homer in Kansas City's workout while Gino Cimoli, Joe Christopher and rookie catcher O. Jesus McFarlane hit for the distance at the Pirates camp.

Outfielder-third baseman Tommy Davis connected for a 400-foot two-run homer, and a run-scoring double in the Dodgers' squad contest while catcher Norm Sherry clouted a 385-foot home run with one on.

Yogi Berra became the New York Yankees first casualty when he was unable to practice due to a strained neck muscle. Boston Red Sox rookie outfielder Carl Yastrzemski will be lost for a few days with a painful bruise on his left hand. He was hit by a pitch from the club's mechanized hurler, iron mike.

Doug Sanders Among Golf's Big Winners

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Doug Sanders, despite an often-criticized swing, a set of woods "not worth $7.50" and a 15-month victory drought, popped up among golf's leading money winners today after winning the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Open invitational tournament.

Sanders, 27, a Georgian by birth who lives in Florida and plays out of Ojai, Calif., employed his abbreviated, scattish swing to near perfection for a four-round total of 272, good enough for a five-stroke edge.

Gay Brewer Jr., of Crystal River, Fla., who had his troubles on the final day, and Mac Main of Danville, Va., who didn't have any, tied for the runnerup spot at 277.

South Africa's Gary Player and Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., trailed at 280 with tournament favorite Arnold Palmer of Miami, Fla., heading a group at 283.

The winner's check of $4,300 was welcomed in the Sanders household, the first Sanders has won since December 1959. Not that the Sanders' bankroll is depleted—no, indeed. The jackpot hiked his 1961 earnings to $13,594, second only to Palmer and Player.

Sanders had four rounds of 68-75-69-70 for a total only two away from the tournament record set last year by Dow Finsterwald.

Palmer, finishing out of the top five for the first time this year when he has played the full 72 holes, just couldn't fathom the greens on the City Park No. 1 course that stretches 6,569 yards.

Main, yet to win a nickel in official money on the tour this year, was the big surprise, earning his tie for second with a final round 67. Brewer, who had trap difficulties, shot a closing 74.

The Kansas State Wildcats hope to gain sole possession of the Big Eight basketball championship this week as the conference's regular season ends.

Coach Tex Winter's seventh-ranked Cats clinched at least a tie for the banner by beating Nebraska 75-56 in Manhattan, Kan., last Saturday.

K-State's 11-2 league record is a game and a half better than second place Kansas' 9-3 and the 'Cats will have three chances to win the undisputed championship this week.

K-State would back into the laurels if Iowa State (6-7) beats Kansas in Ames, Iowa, tonight. A Kansas loss to Missouri (5-7) in a nationally televised game in Columbia, Mo., Saturday afternoon also would turn the trick.

If Kansas beats both Iowa State and Missouri, K-State can wrap up the championship at the expense of Colorado in Manhattan Saturday night.

Kansas State shared the conference championship with Kansas last year and lost to the Jayhawks in a playoff game for the NCAA tournament. The Wildcats, 20-4 for the season, clinched this year's tournament bid earlier this month, since Kansas is on probation by the NCAA.

Only one game separates third place Oklahoma State (7-6), fourth place Colorado (6-6), Iowa State (6-7) and Missouri (5-7), and there can be considerable shuffling of these positions in the final standings.

Other Big Eight games in the final week include: Tonight—Colorado at Oklahoma, Nebraska at Missouri. Thursday—Oklahoma State at Oklahoma.

Kansas last represented the Big Eight in the national collegiate tournament in 1959, losing to Cincinnati in the regional meet. The 1958 Wildcats finished fourth in the national tournament.

Coach Hank Iba's Oklahoma State Cowboys assured themselves of their highest Big Eight finish by beating Colorado 71-48 in Stillwater, Okla., Saturday. The victory, OSU's 7th in the league against 6 losses, moved the Cowboys into third place ahead of Colorado (6-6). OSU finished in a last place tie last season.

Moe Iba scored 21 points for Oklahoma State against Colorado. Roger Voss got the same number for the Buffaloes.

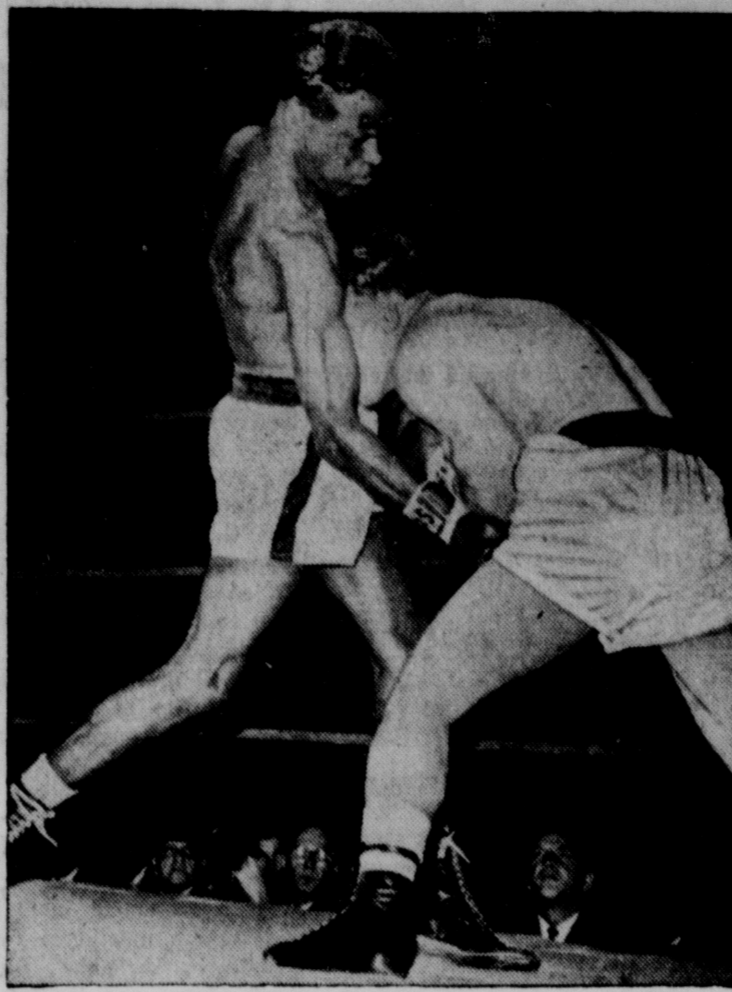

K-State's deadly one-two punch of Ced Price and Larry Comley subdued Nebraska. Price scored 22 points and Comley 21 as the Cats shook off Nebraska early in the second half and won going away.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Sonny Liston has a new opponent for his Wednesday night fight at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Instead of taking on young Jack Johnson, the ranking heavyweight will fight Howard King instead.

King punched himself into the fight.

He was Johnson's sparring partner and got too rough, opening a cut inside Johnson's mouth Saturday. Johnson had to go to a hospital, and King agreed to take over the Wednesday night chores with Liston.

Fullmer Has Eyes Fixed On Pender

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer's one good eye was fixed firmly today on Paul Pender's limited version of the 160-pound crown.

Sugar Ray Robinson, his 21-year-career perhaps finished by Fullmer in their nationally televised Donnybrook, was glumly considering his future.

Fullmer, his left eye closed tight by a Robinson right, said before leaving for his Utah mink ranch: "I'd like to fight Pender and clear up the muddled middleweight picture. The division should have an undisputed champion."

Norman Rothschild, a co-promoter of Saturday's bloody brawl, said there was a good chance of a Fullmer-Pender title fight in June at the Las Vegas convention center where Fullmer whipped Robinson in their fourth meeting Saturday night.

Marv Jensen, Fullmer's manager, said his champion would agree to meet Pender anywhere except New York and Massachusetts, where the Boston Irishman is recognized as champion.

Jensen said Pender would have to agree to the challenge's end of the purse because: "We have something he wants. We don't need him. He needs us."

The Robinson camp was bitterly critical of the battle which destroyed the 40-year-old ex-champion's hopes of regaining the crown for an unprecedented sixth time.

They objected especially to the third round, when Fullmer bombed a dazed and hurt Robinson for several seconds after the bell.

Robinson had gotten in trouble when he tried to beat Fullmer to the punch, but fired late. Fullmer sent him reeling into the ropes from a looping overhand right.

The muscular Mormon was all over Robinson and clubbed the battered ex-champ 22 times before the bell sounded. He then slammed at Robinson, battered and helpless against the ropes, until Robinson's manager, George Gainford, jumped into the ring with two seconds and rescued their man.

The rugged champion set a furious, wild-swinging pace — but Robinson rallied after the nationally televised 15-rounder slugging toe-to-toe.

The cards gave Fullmer the decision unanimously, but the ring announcement was misunderstood at ringside. For a few chaotic moments, some thought Robinson had won.

The battle was a rich pay day for both fighters. There was a $140,000 gate and $150,000 television money. Fullmer got 40 per cent of the gate and $60,000 of the TV money. Robinson got 25 per cent of the gate and $50,000 television money.

Easton had Larry McCue, the national junior college 100 and 220 champion last year at Hutchinson, Kan., in form after a two-week layoff because of a pulled muscle. McCue won the 60-yard dash in .06.3.

Kansas piled up the points in runs from 600 yards to two miles. The Jayhawks scored 33 points in those events.

Jim Heath, Colorado sophomore, posted the only record, winning the 600 in 1:12.1, a tenth of a second under the old standard.

Only double winner was K-State's Rex Stucker, who tied the 60-yard low hurdle record of .06.9 and won the highs in .07.4. He was second to McCue in the 60-yard sprint.

George Davies, Oklahoma State sophomore, upset defending champion and record holder J. D. Martin of Oklahoma in the pole vault. Davies cleared 15-4, Martin 15-0. Martin set the record of 15-7¼ last year.

Only two of four defending titlists won their events. Don Meyers of Colorado repeated in the broad jump, 24-1, and Mike Lindsay of Oklahoma won the shot put at 58-10½.

Kansas football star Curtis McCClinton failed to repeat in the high hurdles and placed third after knocking over the first hurdle and tipping two others.

Kirk Hagan, a sophomore, got Kansas' fourth first place in winning the 1,000-yard run in 2:16.5.

Both Champions

Cincy May Have Chance To Knock Out Ohio State

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

If any team has a chance of knocking off champion Ohio State in the National Collegiate (NCAA) basketball tournament, it may be a neighbor—red-hot Cincinnati.

Ohio State has a 28-game winning streak going, counting five at the end of last season. Cincinnati, recovering from the loss by graduation of Oscar (Big O) Robertson, has won 18 straight and acts as if it has no idea of quitting.

Both the Ohio teams clinched undisputed conference championships over the weekend, officially qualifying for spots in the NCAA championships. The draw puts them in opposite brackets. If they keep winning their streaks won't collide until the tournament final at Kansas City March 25.

The fields for the two big post-season events—NCAA, the official college title tournament, and the National Invitation opening March 16 at Madison Square Garden—are almost but not quite complete.

At least seven and possibly eight teams are yet to be determined for the sprawling NCAA, which gets its regional eliminations under way March 14. Three teams are yet to be officially chosen for the 12-team NIT.

In the NCAA, playoffs are necessary to resolve ties in three conferences — the Southeastern, Ohio Valley and Skyline — while incomplete schedules could still determine the issue in the Border and West Coast Athletic conferences. The NCAA also has spots for two and possibly three teams to be selected at large.

The National Invitation selectors are expected to announce a couple of picks today. One certainty is Bradley, the defending NIT champion which was knocked out of a possible tie for the Missouri Valley Conference title Saturday when beaten by St. Louis 70-63. The Skyline Conference runner-up either Utah or Colorado State, will get one of the bids with the 12th one going to Tennessee State, Duquesne or Holy Cross.

Already in the NIT are Memphis State, Providence, DePaul, Detroit, Army Miami (Fla.), Dayton, Temple and Niagara.

The NIT must wait until next Saturday for its Skyline representative. That's when Utah and Colorado State meet at Provo, Utah in a playoff for the conference crown and attendant NCAA berth. Colorado State forced the playoff by upsetting Utah Saturday night 50-49.

Eastern Kentucky's 67-54 upset of Morehead tossed the Ohio Valley race into a three-way snarl which must be unraveled by a playoff. Eastern and Morehead play again tonight, the winner meeting Western Kentucky Wednesday for the championship.

Kentucky and Vanderbilt clash Thursday night at Knoxville to determine which carries the Southeastern Conference banner into the NCAA. They tied for second place behind Mississippi State, which is passing up the tournament because of an unwritten state law against competition with Negroes.

Loyola can clinch the West Coast Athletic Conference title by beating Pepperdine Tuesday. New Mexico State can tie Arizona State for the Border Conference crown by beating Hardin-Simmons tonight.

Ohio State won the Big Ten championship by beating Michigan State 91-83 while its chief challenger, Iowa, fell before Indiana 78-69. The Buckeyes have only one more game—at Illinois Saturday. If they win as expected, they will become one of the rare teams to go through a regular campaign without a blemish.

North Carolina did it in 1957 and went on to win the NCAA.

Cincinnati's 18th straight victim was Marshall 69-57 and this also was the team's 23rd victory in 26 games.

There were at least two surprise additions to the NCAA list over the weekend, both the result of tournament wins. George Washington, a team which had a 6-16 regular season record, climaxed a 3-game sweep through the Southern Conference tournament by beating William & Mary in the final 93-82. Wake Forest, beaten 10 times, routed Duke 96-81 for the Atlantic Coast Conference title.

Princeton gained an NCAA tournament berth by beating Harvard 71-59, thus clinching the Ivy League championship. Southern California won the Big Five by thumping Stanford 79-61 while UCLA upset Washington 84-68.

Ten places in the NCAA had been filled previously — five by conference championships and five through selection at large. The conference champions are Kansas State (Big Eight), Ohio U. (Mid-American), St. Joseph's of Pennsylvania (Middle Atlantic), Texas Tech (Southwest) and Rhode Island (Yankee).

At the large teams picked were St. Bonaventure, St. John's, Houston, Louisville and Marquette. One at large team is yet to be chosen for the Mid-East regional tournament and one or two for the West. It's possible Southern Cal will be given a free entry into the second round through a bye.

A See-saw Battle In Hockey Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Just when it appears there might be a decision in the Toronto-Montreal struggle for the National Hockey League championship, one team or the other slips a little and they wind up back where they started.

When the Maple Leafs beat the Canadiens last Wednesday, it gave the Leafs a four-point lead that offset the Canadiens' one game in hand.

The situation remained unchanged as they both won Saturday, Toronto outscoring the New York Rangers 5-4 and the Canadiens beating the Detroit Red Wings 6-4. But Sunday night Montreal pulled out a 2-1 squeaker over the Boston Bruins while the Leafs yielded to the Chicago Black Hawks 3-1. So now its two points again and Toronto has one less game to play.

By winning Sunday night, the Canadiens clinched second place. They're 13 points ahead of Chicago with six games to go for each team.

In Sunday night's other game, the Rangers walloped Detroit 8-3 and kept the fourth place race alive. If they had won, the Red Wings would have clinched at least a tie for fourth.

Mrs. Beech Among Highest Paid Business Executives

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Olive Ann Beech is a tall, gracious woman who likes softly tailored clothes especially if they are blue, enjoys gin rummy and dotes on her grandson. She also is the boss of a $100-million-a-year aircraft business.

At 57, she is as much at home at a board meeting as she was 35 years ago behind her husband in an open cockpit plane. She was midwife to Walter Beech's aircraft business at its birth and she is head of the house in these boisterous years.

As president and board chairman of Beech Aircraft Corp. since her husband's death in 1950, Mrs. Beech probably is the country's top woman executive. Her $119,000 salary last year put her among the highest paid. Yet she neither trades on being a woman nor apologizes for her sex. Her letters are signed an unfriendly O. A. Beech.

"Nothing is a handicap if you know and do your job," is her stock reply to the inevitable question about woman's chance in business. "If you can prove your worth as an individual, there's a place for you anywhere."

Beech Aircraft, in its first fiscal quarter of 1961 delivered 237 new airplanes for net billings of more than $11.2 million — more than 27 per cent of the total market for business aviation. It sold more than 1,000 planes in 1960 in a field where four companies do 95 per cent of the business. It had $52 million in military sales last year.

The driving force behind such a big operation likely is seen differently by different people. Mrs. Beech often is painted as a cold cookie, aloof, hostile, demanding and generally hard to get along with. Friends and associates, however, describe her as an efficient executive in a toughly competitive business; devoted to her firm and its employees, to worthy causes, to church and family and to the city of Wichita.

Of herself, she says: "I'm an executive and I'm expected to act like an executive. But executives have a life of their own outside the office and I have mine."

Trim and attractive, she is every inch the executive. Her blue eyes are penetrating. They warm visibly when talk is about airplanes. Her outside interests—the theater, music, gin rummy games and other gatherings with friends—have to be elicited slowly. She appears more modest than shy.

As one of three members of the Beechcraft Executive Committee, it falls to her to make decisions that involve millions of dollars. But she also makes it a point personally to pin service emblems on employees.

Her civic activities naturally are on the top level. But when it came time to decorate the Soroptimist Club Christmas tree last year, she climbed a ladder to help.

"In her dealings, she is a warm sincere and charming person," said a Beech official, "but you never forget she is the boss. There is nothing about her in business dealings that I would call womanly emotions."

Still, her small office is a constant reminder that her major interests are airplanes and family—not necessarily in that order. Suspended from the ceiling are models of every plane Beechcraft has built since 1932 when the company was formed by Walter and Olive Beech and a handful of associates. The wall behind Mrs. Beech's French provincial desk is covered with framed pictures of airplanes. Other walls are similarly filled with pictures of her husband and two daughters.

A new addition to the gallery is a photograph of her husky 6-month-old grandson, Lowell Jay Lyons II in the cockpit of a Beechcraft Queen Air. "He sure enjoyed that first flight," Mrs. Beech said, beaming.

Thunderstorms Rake Parts of Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Thunderstorms raked central and eastern Oklahoma with a violent mixture of rain, hail and high winds Sunday. There was damage at Pauls Valley and a report of a twister near Prague.

High winds caused $250,000 damage to the Valley Bowling Alley in Pauls Valley. One man was injured.

Theron Godwin, owner of the establishment, said wind wrecked the rear end of the building.

Joe Nelson, who was at work in a shop behind the bowling alley, was injured when a bottle of cleaning chemical burst into his face. His condition was not believed serious.

The Highway Patrol reported sighting a funnel in the air near Prague, but found no damage.

Actor Peter Lawford Has a Bad Nosebleed

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Actor Peter Lawford, brother-in-law of President Kennedy, is recuperating in a hospital from a severe nosebleed.

Hospital spokesmen said he probably will be released in a few days. The British-born actor was hospitalized Saturday.

Lawford, 38, and his wife, Patricia, had been staying at the Palm Springs home of entertainer Frank Sinatra.

Drama Fare On 'Omnibus' Is Far Out

By CYNTHIA Lowry
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"Omnibus," stubbornly dedicated to lifting the TV viewers' sights—well, anyway, the sight of the late Sunday afternoon TV viewers—exposed us to some examples of avant garde, or far out, dramatic fare Sunday.

William Saroyan, a playwright who a few years ago was considered pretty far out himself, was along as a necessary guide for the uninitiated. This was a scene from his own "The Time of Your Life" (1939). It was followed by a rewrite of the scene as it would have been handled by a young playwright today.

The 1939 scene was warm and cozy with happy-go-lucky Joe explaining his harmless philosophy of life to Mary. The 1961 version was also cozy but cold with a nervous Joe and a frenetic Mary yearning to talk to each other but not quite able to achieve communication.

But after that, "Omnibus" got a bit thick. There was a weird bit called "The Killer" by Eugene Ionesco in which a middle-aged man, confronted by a horrible creature with a maniacal giggle, was trying frantically to avoid death. At the end, the killer raised the knife, the middle-aged man collapsed and there was Saroyan, to ask with a chuckle whether the protagonist was destroyed or whether he committed suicide.

Then came another puzzler, "Krapp's Last Tape," by Samuel Beckett. Saroyan explained that we'd understand this better if we consider the tape recordings to be all the world's history and Krapp as a modern man. It really didn't help. Krapp was a mad looking old man, addicted to bananas and alcoholic excesses. When he finally got around to playing the tape-recording, it proved to be utter banality—far from the history of the world, but perhaps that was the point.

Finally, there was a one-act play by Albert Albee, which was so very, very far out that it made absolutely no sense at all to me. It concerned two horrible creatures called mommy and daddy who were putting an old woman in a sandbox to die. I had a curious feeling that it must have been either very funny or very tragic, but I couldn't tell.

CBS' Twentieth Century program Sunday was a report on the current activities of Dr. Gordon Seagrave, the famed "Burma surgeon" who though elderly and infirm is still practicing medicine

Governor Wants Strong Conflict Of Interest Law

BOSTON (AP)—Gov. John A. Volpe wants the Massachusetts Legislature to write into law a declaration "that public office not be used for personal gain."

That's part of the preamble to Volpe's code of ethics for state government—a proposal which would give Massachusetts the nation's most comprehensive state conflict of interest law.

He proposed a commission on conflicts of interest—in effect, a five-man conscience for state government.

It would include a clergyman, a Supreme or Superior Court justice or former justice and at least one additional attorney.

The commission would set standards to guard against actual or potential conflicts of interest, enforce the code of ethics, and advise state officials "faced with resolving difficult and close decisions of propriety."

A few critics of the governor's plan already are objecting, with a familiar theme: "You can't legislate morality."

Volpe's code of ethics was the first special message the Republican governor presented personally to the Democratic legislature.

Now the governor is taking his case to the people. He has said the public must take a big share of the blame for abuses in government. "The evils that have developed in political affairs do no more than reflect, in great measure, the moral corruption of the people," Volpe said in a Worcester speech.

Puyehue Volcano Spews Ashes, Smoke

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The Puyehue volcano erupted Sunday spewing ashes and smoke from its crater. The Andes Mountain volcano is 625 miles south of here, near the town of Osorno which was covered with a light mantle of ashes.

among the countryfolk and villagers in that far off land. Seagrave proved an engaging, gruff old man, passionately dedicated to saving human life. Slipped almost casually into the half-hour show was a sequence showing the birth of a child and efforts by Seagrave and his native staff to save it. It was a gripping moment and more dramatic than the most carefully staged climax of a dramatic show.

Fox Studio Making Big TV Efforts

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The pilot season is rolling full-steam in Hollywood these days, with millions being gambled on hopeful TV series.

Sponsors are buying early this year. That news has sent the film factories scurrying to produce new attractions to replace the season's casualties. Nowhere is there more scurrying than at 20th Century-Fox.

The studio got into TV late, so far has scored only two successes—"Dobie Gillis" and "Adventures in Paradise." Next year may be different. A big chunk of coin is being dropped into six proposed series with Roy Huggins, late of "Maverick," in charge.

This flurry of activity bore looking into, so I visited the lot to see what was going on. On Stage 11 I found Ginger Rogers, ready for her fifth leap into marriage (to producer William Marshall) and her first into a TV series. It's called "The Ginger Rogers Show."

"I play twins," she explained. "One is a writer, intensely practical, hard-headed, direct. The other is a designer, flighty, impractical, living in a world of dreams. Charlie Ruggles plays my uncle."

Over on Stage 14 they were shooting the pilot of "The Hunters," an hour-long hopeful about big game hunting in Africa. There was Brett Halsey making love to Felicia Farr with the velvet in back.

On the back lot, the movie makers were aiming at the sure-fire frontier market with another hour effort called "The Jayhawkers." A couple of new lads, Jock Gaynor and Jack Betts, were being groomed to head this project.

Already filmed are three other lead chapters of hopeful series: "Bus Stop," using characters from the movie—Tuesday Weld in the Marilyn Monroe role, Gary

Marilyn Feels Fine, Leaves the Hospital

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Marilyn Monroe was home at her East 57th Street apartment today after almost a month of hospitalization for "a rest and a checkup."

She was beaming when she walked out of the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center Sunday and announced, "I feel wonderful." She said she had no immediate plans—just more rest at home.

Miss Monroe appeared a bit startled when she was confronted at the hospital entrance by a crowd of about 300 fans and 50 reporters and photographers.

She declined to talk about her plans, but she reportedly is scheduled to begin work soon on a TV production of W. Somerset Maugham's "Rain" at a salary of $125,000.

Using Home-produced Anti-polio Vaccine

TOKYO (AP)—Japan put its first home-produced anti-polio vaccine on the market today. The Welfare Ministry said the first batch would inoculate 400,000 persons.

Japan previously relied on anti-polio vaccine from the United States, Canada and the Soviet Union.

Royal Army Troops Advancing in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Royal army troops have moved north of the important road terminus of the Vieng to push toward the rebel stronghold of Xieng Khouang in northern Laos, government sources said Sunday.

"Margie," another movie re-tread with Cynthia Pepper in the Jeanne Crain part. "House on Rue Riviera," in Southern France with John Ericson and Richard Anderson seeking whodunit and Jayne Mansfield among the scenery.

Jackson County GOP Chief Resigns Post

KANSAS CITY (AP)—L. E. Stollenwerk said factionalism in the Jackson County Republican Committee caused him to resign as its chairman Sunday.

Stollenwerk, 32, had been chairman since January, 1960. He is director of public relations for Spencer Chemical Co.

"So far as I can see, the minutes of the county committee meetings in the last year reveal the most ridiculous collection of time spent on trivia, wasted hot air, bitter personal attacks and a wonderful advancement of the cause of factionalism," he said.

Stollenwerk made announcement at the first meeting of the committee since the November election.

The vice chairman, Mrs. Mary Lou Lemberger, became acting chairman.

Edie Adams Wants More Serious Act

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Edie Adams, who does a hilarious imitation of Marilyn Monroe, has burned her collection of fright wigs, thrown away the wax for blacking out teeth and has been taking some lessons at the Actors' Studio.

That does not mean that Miss Adams is abandoning comedy, for which the blonde, pretty spouse of Ernie Kovacs has demonstrated such an aptitude. It's just that Edie, who studied voice at New York's Juilliard School, discovered that broad and uninhibited frolicking was limiting her career.

"First I noticed it in the TV programming," she related. "At the beginning they would list me as Edie Adams, singer. Then it was Edie Adams, singer-comedienne. Then it was Edie Adams, comedienne-singer. But I got rid of the wigs and the wax after they identified me as Edie Adams, comedienne."

Producers of CBS' "Eyewitness to History" series, concerned with a top news story each week, will finally take its optics off war, peace, politics and disaster for a few minutes. Tonight's program is for the ladies—a preview of Paris spring fashions three days before they can be seen in the stores. It's pure dream stuff from Dior, Balmain and Balenciaga because the high-style confections shown will sell at prices ranging from $700 upwards.

Peggy Cass, the Jack Paar regular who is scheduled for a fall series—co-starring with some chimpanzees—will fill in for Polly Bergen on the "To Tell the Truth" panel for the next two or three months.

Manslaughter Charge Filed Over Accident

COLUMBUS, Kan. (AP)—Clarence T. Lester of Tulsa was charged with 4th degree manslaughter Saturday in connection with a highway accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom B. Hoskins, Joplin, Mo., were killed Friday night in a collision between their car and Lester's car three miles east of Baxter Springs, Kan.

previous, will be a great day for the Irish on the Ed Sullivan Show: Pat O'Brien, the Clancy Brothers, Bredon O'Dowda, Mary O'Hara and Tammy Grimes. "Sing Along with Mitch" is drawing such glowing response from audiences that NBC has awarded it a weekly spot in its fall lineup —on Thursday nights in an unenviable spot competing with the last half of the top-rated "Untouchables."

The Yankee President

Ireland's Citizens Call JFK 'Cousin'

NEW ROSS, Co. Wexford, Erie (AP)—As soon as he took office, President John F. Kennedy let it be known that he would like to be referred to informally by the initials "J.F.K."

The word apparently never got to Ireland. If it did, it was grandly ignored. Here in New Ross, where his great grandfather dug potatoes before the Great Famine forced him to emigrate, Kennedy is known familiarly as "Cousin Jack, the Yankee president."

Patriots in sympathy with government efforts to revive the Gaelic language take familiarity a step further and refer to him as "Cousin Sean."

Either way, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, three generations away from the auld sod, has become the biggest thing to hit New Ross since the Normans established a beachhead back in the 12th century.

If it hadn't been for the Yankee president, the mayor would still have his bowler hat, saloon keeper Gus O'Kennedy would still be the most famous local Kennedy because of his football prowess, and no one would bother taking the narrow, twisting road to Dunganstown to see the crumbling shanty that Patrick Kennedy occupied before setting out for America somewhere around 1850.

"There's a grail over him all right," admitted pub keeper Paddy Welch, who is anxiously waiting for the postman to deliver a huge color blow up of the President for display over his big mahogany bar. "It's coming from America and will set me back a couple of guineas. But, after all, it's not every town in Ireland can boast of the likes of Cousin Jack."

Similarly, the little souvenir shop on the main street has ordered a batch of Kennedy pictures to go with the shillelaghs imported from Germany and the metal harps and shamrocks from Japan.

"For the tourists mainly," explained the gray-haired proprietress, "although we do get some local calls."

The town where the Kennedys came from, as New Ross is now referred to by the guides on the tourist buses, is one of the prettiest in Ireland. Located just below the confluence of the Nare and Barrow rivers, in sight of the lovely Black Stairs Mountains, it is a walled city, pleasant and ancient, with steep, winding streets and a handsome town hall that proudly preserves under glass the maces of Edward III and Charles II and the original charter granted by James II.

New Ross has 5,000 people, 67 pubs, two fertilizer factories, a small steel plant, three churches and three beards.

One of the beards is magnificently attached to Andy Minihan, chairman of the Urban Council, the local equivalent of mayor.

On the night Cousin Jack was inaugurated, Minihan lost his bowler hat in the line of duty.

"At the big banquet just after the torchlight parade, a Yank reporter stepped on it," his honor recounted, red beard quaking with indignation. "Sure it was nothing compared with what happened to the Widow Ryan. You heard about that, did you? She gave one of those souvenir hunters permission to take a stone from the old Kennedy place and was perished to see him clouting away with a sledgehammer. Go there and you'll see the big crack over the door."

The crack was there all right, though the house itself took a bit of finding. Dunganstown is a wide spot in a narrow road, a few miles below New Ross, where the River Barrow cuts a tidal path through a lush green plain, dotted with sheep, on its winding way to sea.

Mrs. James Ryan, a Kennedy before her marriage and a cousin of the President, lives on the old Kennedy farm with her daughter, Johanna, 23. A pleasant, patient woman with a warm, musical voice, Mrs. Ryan still manages to be gracious to the increasing number of visitors who flock to the Kennedy homestead, inviting them in for a cup of strong, black tea and a look at her collection of family pictures. Among them are a campaign picture of the President, sent to her by a sister in America, and a snapshot of the family taken by John F. Kennedy when he visited the place in the summer of 1947.

Scrawled on the back in pencil are the words: "This picture taken by the President of the United States."

Kennedy, at the time, was only a congressman. He had driven over from Lismore Castle, where he was staying with his sister, Kathleen, the Marchioness of Hartington by virtue of her marriage to the son of the Duke of Devonshire. (She was killed the following spring in a plane crash.)

Like any other American tourist, Kennedy had arrived with a camera around his neck and had lined up all the various cousins against the wall of his great-grandfather's house for a typical firing squad-type family portrait. This was before he met Jacqueline Bouvier and before he could entrust the family picture taking to a professional.

Mrs. Ryan's tidy cottage, with lace curtains at the window, a big electric range in the kitchen and a cozy coal fire in the parlor, is in marked contrast to Patrick Kennedy's humble hut out in the barnyard. The low-slung building is now used as a "boiler house," where turnips and other vegetables are boiled for cattle forage.

Its sole occupant today is an enormous sow who loudly grunts her dissatisfaction with the type of visitors who have been frequenting the place of late.

Next to St. Patrick's church in nearby Ballykelly stands the little parochial school where Patrick Kennedy learned to read and write, which gave him an immense advantage over many other immigrants when he landed at Noddle Island in East Boston in the middle of the last century.

The Kennedy relations still attend the church and school, but they bury their dead in the Protestant churchyard at White Church, a few miles away, a common practice among Catholics in Ireland who still regard the cemeteries around churches that changed hands during the Reformation as consecrated land.

The Kennedy election has given the men of County Wexford a new weapon in their long-standing rivalry with the men from County Kilkenny, just across the river. For several years now Wexford has had to take a back seat to Kilkenny in turning out top football and hurling players. This although the Wexford men are, by tradition, tall and sturdy, "like Cousin Jack," while the Kilkenny men are short and stocky or, as Paddy Welch described them, "just two hands higher than a duck."

Back in 1915 Gus O'Kennedy, a distant relation of the President, brought Wexford glory by winning a spot on the All Ireland football team, but last year four Kilkenny men were nominated.

"The only way we can shut them up," said Paddy, "is to ask them when's the last time they turned out a Yankee president."

Both sides of the river, however, can boast of Kennedy cousins, as can most towns for several miles around. And, apparently, the number of Kennedy claimants is growing every day.

Officials at Dublin Castle, where genealogical records are kept, say there are 18,000 Kennedys and O'Kennedys in Ireland. They place the name 16th in the list of most common Irish surnames.

"Back in the days of the troubles, around 1920, a lot of Kennedys in the flush of patriotism changed their name to O'Kennedy to make themselves even more Irish," Mayor Minihan explained. "And now a lot of them wish to hell they hadn't."

Like most great Irish families, the Kennedys can claim to be descended from kings. The clan was founded by Cinnéidigh, high king of North Munster, a nephew of Brian Boru, the great Irish hero who defeated the Danes at Clontarf in 1014.

Farm Machinery Churches Ask Dealer's Day Is Planned March 7

A special day for farm machinery dealers, the first of its kind in Missouri, has been set aside in early March on University of Missouri agricultural campus.

The event, March 7, will deal with late developments in machinery for weed control, fertilizer application and minimum tillage. The program will be held in the University's Agricultural Engineering Building.

Out-of-state speaker Wendell Bowers, extension engineer with the University of Illinois, will discuss minimum tillage, a subject of considerable interest to Missouri farmers.

Staff members of the College of Agriculture's economic, engineering and soils departments will round out the day's speaking roster.

Winding up the day's program will be a panel discussion on ways in which machinery dealers and the University can work together. Included on the panel will be Harold Owens, machinery dealer from St. Joseph; Vic Caruthers, Buchanan County agent; Scott County Agent Tom Stroup; and Pete Kuehler, machinery dealer from Sikeston.

Seven Inhabitants Object Ghost Town Ruling by Census

TORINO, Ill. (AP)—The once prospering village of Torino, labeled a ghost town by the U. S. Census Bureau, has seven indignant and very alive inhabitants. "We still live in Torino," Mrs. John Marma declared Sunday, "and we love it."

Mrs. Marma said the seven members of her family apparently were not at home when the census taker visited their village in the extreme southwest corner of Will County.

"I don't know where we were that day," she said, "but we were never counted."

Torino became a village officially in 1903, boasting 500 residents. But its coal mines gave out over the years, and in 1950 the census counted only nine.

Then on Feb. 25, Torino was listed as one of five newly designated ghost towns in the country.

Mrs. Marma said the family probably will move away four years from now, when the Peabody Coal Co. is scheduled to take their land.

"That," she said sadly, "will definitely be the end of Torino."

Attacking Sea Lion Probably 'Psychotic'

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—Despite their ferocious-sounding name, sea lions are gentle creatures.

But they do have their problems. That probably is why skindiver Robert Evans of Alameda, Calif., is nursing a 14-stitch gash in his leg after an encounter near Monterey's Fishermen's Wharf.

says Dr. Robert T. Orr of San Francisco's Steinhart Aquarium. The sea lion that attacked Evans, grabbed him by the leg and pulled him 50 feet to the bottom of the ocean is probably psychotic, Dr. Orr said. Evans saved himself by kicking his rubber flipper into the animal's eyes.

"There are mentally deranged sea lions, just as there are mentally deranged humans," Dr. Orr explained.

Twin Sisters Mark Their 95th Birthday

GREENBRIER, Ark. (AP)—Twin sisters who came to Arkansas shortly after the Civil War have celebrated their 95th birthdays.

Emma Snow and Alice Smith, both widows, live about five miles apart but see each other only four or five times a year. They talk daily on the phone.

They were born in Humboldt, Tenn., and came to Faulkner County with their pioneer parents in 1867. A birthday party Sunday was held at the home of Ethel E. Wilson, Mrs. Smith's daughter.

Mayor Starts Drive For All 30 Voters

LAZY LAKE, Fla. (AP)—An election to fill three vacancies on the village council will be held March 14, and Mayor Charles H. Lindfors has a drive on to get out the vote—all 30 of them.

This tiny community north of Fort Lauderdale has 31 adult residents and 30 registered voters. The loner doesn't claim Florida as a legal residence.

Churches Ask Workers For Varied Tasks

RELIGION TODAY
By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Help wanted: Pilots, doctors, teachers, nurses, agricultural technicians, home economists, secretaries, language experts, librarians, chemists and clergymen.

This may sound like a job list from some catch-all employment agency, but it's actually the call for missionary personnel being sounded today by American churches.

They use all kinds of workers besides ministers in their overseas operations nowadays, ranging from etymologists to electricians.

Although spreading the gospel of Christ remains the central aim, "present-day missionaries are unlike their predecessors," says Methodist World Missions Secretary Eugene L. Smith.

"They are specialists—Agricultural missionaries, engineering missionaries, editorial missionaries, architectural missionaries, as well as preachers, teachers, doctors, nurses and social workers."

Also, they no longer go as paternalistic superiors to backward cultures, but as coworkers and helpers to native-run churches.

Right now, a recruitment season is on.

Numerous churches have sent out calls for personnel to fill vacancies in the worldwide, $200-million-a-year missionary program carried on by U.S. denominations. It includes 44,001 Americans abroad, 37,219 Protestants, 6,782 Catholics. Nearly 1,000 are doctors.

The over-all total is up about 50 per cent in the last 10 years, and still rising.

All the newly named missionaries undergo extensive preliminary training at various centers about the country, learning of the culture and conditions under which they'll serve. Some courses are as rigorous as discipline as Army "boot camp."

Eight Protestant denominations joined early this year in starting a new training base for missionaries, on an interdenominational basis, at Stony Point, N.Y., about 40 miles north of New York City.

It has facilities for about 50 adults. Common rooms are used for dining, social activities, classes and worship. The course lasts about 4½ months. Eventually capacity is expected to be increased to handle 200 to 300 persons at once.

General age limits for new missionaries are 21 to 55. Short-termers go for three years, career appointees for an indefinite stay. Pay is modest, usually, besides maintenance, about $1,500 for single persons, $2,600 for a couple.

Big Opening Sales Encourage Israel

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A record opening sale encouraged the Israel bond organization today in its quest for $80-million financial support in 1961 for Israel's development.

Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz of New York City said cash and pledges totaled $18,465,000 at the end of a conference which inaugurated this year's drive. The old record was $16 million set in 1957.

Samuel Rothberg of Peoria, Ill., conference chairman, pledged Sunday that the current campaign will bring Israel bond subscriptions to a 10-year total of $500 million by April 20, Israel's 13th birthday.

Millhouse Changes Mind About Old Law

MILTON, Fla. (AP)—Actor Frog Milhouse changed his mind about sitting in jail to protest a Florida law he considered unfair and today is free under $300 bond.

The frog-voiced comedian, more widely known as Gene Autry's buddy, Smiley Burnette, gained his release from jail in the north-west Florida community early Sunday. He was arrested Saturday on a charge of violating a law requiring certain license and tax fees for outdoor acts.

Millhouse, who had been giving autograph parties for children on supermarket parking lots, said he did not think he should have to pay the fees—about $200 a day—because no admission was charged.
